

Dear Customer,

The software accompanying this letter is as a result of Digital's on-going alliance with Apple Computer. This software has been shipping since September 27, 1990 under the label "DEC LanWORKS for Macintosh V1.0." Due to circumstances beyond our control, we have had to change our name and we have chosen PATHWORKS for Macintosh to represent our product and fit seamlessly into our PATHWORKS product family.

As a result of this new kit release the following changes were made:

1. We have taken the opportunity to fix minor bugs found in the product to date that are transparent to the end user.
2. Some references to PATHWORKS for Macintosh may reflect inconsistent version numbers. Wherever possible, V1.0 is used. However, in order to manufacture the new kit, a version number of "1.0A" had to be used in certain instances. Please be assured that V1.0A and V1.0 are used interchangeably. Software and documentation are a match in any case where the name PATHWORKS for Macintosh is used with any 1.x version number.

For a complete description of PATHWORKS for Macintosh, please refer to the accompanying Software Product Description (SPD).

Thank you for purchasing PATHWORKS for Macintosh V1.0!
