Dear FlexVIEW User

The FlexVIEW Application Debugger has undergone significant enhancement since it's first release in the spring of '88. Most of the effort was focused on multi-process support and remote debugging facilities. And of course we've fixed any outstanding SPR's as well. We're sure you'll be pleased with the results. Update ordering instructions are explained below.

FlexVIEW Application Debugger R2.0

The following is the list of enhancements included in this release:

- Debug control of multiple processes simultaneously
- Serial driver for remote application debugging
- Interlist option allowing display of the machine code generated per line of C source code
- String search command
- Pause on window overrun
- Hot-key now passes keyboard control back to FlexVIEW, continuing debug session even if the process being debugged is hung
- Source PATH command can now be a list of directories
- Significant documentation improvements

FlexVIEW 2.0 update kits are available today. Each update kit includes complete replacement software and a new set of manuals. The price of the FlexVIEW update kit is $50.

For those of you doing system programming, the FlexVIEW System Debugger for driver or system process development is also available. Pricing and order information is included on the update order form. You can use the attached form to order product or call 1 (800) 443-4200 or contact our Santa Clara sales office at 1 (408) 982-0700. Be sure to have your current FlexVIEW serial number and method of payment at hand.
